 PETITIONING THE COURT

To issue a warrant.

The probation officer believes that the offender has violated the following condition(s) of supervision:

Violation Number	Nature of Noncompliance
-------------------------	--------------------------------

1

Mandatory Condition #2: The defendant shall not commit another Federal, state, or local crime.Supporting Evidence: On February 27, 2012, Robert Seaman was arrested for the offense of assault/domestic violence. Officers were advised by the defendant's girlfriend that, on that date, the two were arguing about Mr. Seaman having some of his friends over and that she did not approve of them around their children. As they argued, Mr. Seaman spit in her face, grabbed her by her sweatshirt, and attempted to strangle her. It was reported that he later punched her in the ear and held a knife to her throat. Responding officers observed physical evidence consistent to the reported assault to include red marks around the girlfriend's neck, her ear red, a small cut on her neck, and her sweatshirt that was ripped. Subsequently, the defendant was located and arrested. He posted bail on February 28, 2012, and was released from custody. Charges remain pending in Spokane Municipal Court.
